

PLEASE don't subject me to the non-stop babble of some phone addict on my flight. Even if technically possible without disrupting vital aircraft systems, the din of constant chatter would make flying unbearable. What ever happened to the "friendly skies" ??